THOMAS B. KERR ON TRIAL.

ARRAIGNED FOR HIS CONNECTION WITH THE BROADWAY BRIBERY.

The Work of Getting a Jury Begun and Likely to Prove a Difficult Task—Many Candidates for the Box Kept by the Prosecution for Hours—A Strong Array of Lawyers Rally Around the Defendant.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer to-day, before Justice Patterson, began the trial for bribery of Thomas B. Kerr, formerly Treasurer of the Broadway and Seventh Avenue Railroad.

Kerr was indicted with Jacob Sharp, James A. Richmond and James W. Foshay, of the railroad company, and John Keenan, ex-Alderman Robert E. De Lacy and ex-Reading Clerk William H. Moloney, of the Board of Aldermen of 1884, for the bribery of Alderman Ludolph A. Fullgraf and twenty-one of his colleagues.

He was represented by ex-Judge Noah Davis, Congressman W. Bourke Cockran, John H. Bird and W. H. Clarke.

District Attorney Fellows and Assistant Fitzgerald and Semple were in court for the prosecution.

It was a continuation of the April term of Court and the April panel of fifty jurors was called. Clerk Henry Welsh and Robert Ronyne took the stenographic notes of the examination of jurors.

METHODISM'S GREAT INCREASE.

Nearly Half a Million Converts—Women Delegates Not Admitted.

Bishop Stephen M. Merrill read the Bishops' address at this morning's session of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference.

It states that since the last conference not less than 450,000 souls have been brought into the Church. The membership has gone up from 1,769,594 to 2,093,993.

There has been great improvement in the architectural designs of the churches. The educational work of the Church has made rapid progress and the loyalty of the ministry is a source of congratulation.

There are now 111 conferences under the control of the American Church.

Considerable correspondence has been had with the English Church about a conference between the English and American churches, to be held in the United States in 1891.

After dwelling at length upon the growth of Methodism, the address advised that pulpits be filled only with men able to cope with the arguments of seceders.

The Church has now twelve theological seminaries, fifty-four colleges and 154 academies for the education of the ministry.

POLO GROUNDS, N. Y.—About 2,000 people journeyed up to the Polo grounds this afternoon to see the third game of the series between the New Yorks and Boston.

The game was cold and overcast, with a light northeast breeze. Boston had her star battery (Clarkson and Kelly) in the points, while Titcomb and Murphy did the honors for the Giants.

The batting order was as follows:

NEW YORK. Kelly, c. f. Nash, 2d b. Ward, 3d b. Ewing, 3d b. Connor, 1st b. Richardson, 2d b. O'Rourke, c. f. Murphy, 1st b. Titcomb, p.

BOSTON. Kelly, c. f. Nash, 2d b. Ward, 3d b. Ewing, 3d b. Connor, 1st b. Richardson, 2d b. O'Rourke, c. f. Murphy, 1st b. Titcomb, p.

BASEBALL.

A Very Good Game With the Baltimore.

A Cold, Raw Day and Shivering Spectators.

Brooklyn - - - - - 9 Baltimore - - - - - 3

WASHINGTON PARK, BROOKLYN, May 2.—The attraction was great to-day, but the weather was too raw for many of the Brooklyn public to take the chances of pneumonia on the bleaching-boards or grand stand at Washington Park.

Barnie's Orioles made their first appearance of the season. They had won three of the four games played with the Brooklyn in Oyster-bay and they were hopeful for more victories from the bleachers at their own home, and put their left-handed twirler, Kilroy, in the box to increase their chances in to-day's game.

Brooklyn's boys appeared for practice wearing navy new gray uniforms and an air of confidence which seemed to say, "We can win from any nine that allows the Orioles to defeat it." These men played in the positions named:

McClain, 2d b. Finkley, 3d b. O'Brien, 1st b. Fouts, 1st b. Radford, c. f. Caruthers, p. Kilroy, p.

The ball was put in play promptly with Brooklyn at bat. McClain reversed his usual style of batting and tried it right-handed at Kilroy's left-handed twirler. He drove the ball for a base along the award near base three. Finkley followed with a single to first base. O'Brien followed with a single to first base. Fouts followed with a single to first base. Radford followed with a single to first base. Caruthers followed with a single to first base. Kilroy followed with a single to first base.
